Tax Cuts and Jobs Act

National Association of Tax Professionals

Both the Senate and House Republicans have released their version of tax reform. There are significant differences between each plan as well as many similarities. The Senate Finance Committee has not provided its mark-up, or final version while the House Committee on Ways and Means has. Once each chamber agrees to and votes on its final plan, differences are hashed out through the Joint Committee on Taxation. Here are some of the more noteworthy similarities and differences.
